

Im Doing Just Fine Without You

Javon Coles has always been a nurturer in life as well as in his relationship with Malik Sanders. However, Malik felt as though Javon was smothering him. Treating him like a child as though he couldn't do things for himself. Malik wanted a partner and not a mother. As far as Javon is concerned, he felt as though he was doing the things that a partner should do in a relationship. Will Javon and Malik find some common ground or will they split up and go their separate ways? Will either one of them find what they are looking for or will they just settle?
