

Tea and Madness

Tea & Madness, a memoir written in prose and poetry, is separated into the four seasons inspired by C. Streetlights experiences: grieving a lost baby, coping with depression, anger, betrayal, surviving rape, and the accepting that there are some things she cannot forgive. Balanced somehow within this darkness is the wonder in motherhood and empathetic relationships. As her seasons change, she continues trying to find the balance of existing between normalcy and a certain kind of madness.
